

ENTRANCE

The main building entrance sets the tone when it comes to health, cleanliness, and safety. Instill confidence in employees, occupants, and guests by demonstrating your commitment to the Partners in Protection program. Consider temperature checks and floor decals to promote social distancing. Think of the entrance as your initial safety check.

PARTNERS IN PROTECTION

HAND HYGIENE

Thorough hand washing remains a primary means of preventing cross-contamination and keeping employees, occupants, and guests healthy. Ensure the availability of hand sanitizer at all times.

Entrance Dispenser

Ensure a minimum of two hand sanitizer dispensers at each building entrance – at least one on each side.

Countertop Dispenser

There should be a countertop hand sanitizer dispenser at the building reception/welcome desk for all occupants to use.

Frequent Washing

All individuals should sanitize their hands each time they enter or exit the facility or building.

Signage

Post signage reminding occupants the proper way to clean or sanitize hands. Always follow CDC recommendations.

COLLABORATIVE CLEANING

Everyone will play a role in keeping the entrance areas clean and healthy. When a guest enters the building, they should sanitize their hands and take a wipe from a designated location. They should then sanitize or disinfect the seat where they will sit and table where they will work. If a facility is not comfortable having guests wipe their area, cleaning professionals should wipe furniture 3-4 times per day.

SIGNAGE & PROTOCOLS

- Post signage promoting the building's commitment to health and safety and the PiP program.
- Wipes should be available at the building entrance and/or reception area for use by occupants.
- Entrance mats should be vacuumed/ cleaned daily and inspected for wear and tear, curled edges.
- Preprinted mats with social distancing reminders to constantly reinforce messaging.
- Sweep entrance floors whenever necessary to prevent debris and maximize safety.
